REACTION DURING THE PAST WEEK

From the Revived Activity-The London Market Follows Closely Our Own-The Fluctuations in Silver. Employers Encouraged by Brighter Prospects-Return of Prosperity.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligence NEW YORK, April 6 .- Naturally, there has been during the past week some reaction from the revived activity and the advance in prices prevailing within the two preceding weeks. Some considerable realizing has been done in the stocks which had advanced most; and, for the moment, there is a disposition to let prices settie upon a new natural It is not, however, to be hence inferred that the revival of the speculative spirit has exhausted itself in the late recovery. It means simply that the market is still conservative and disposed to treat stocks on their merits, posed to treat stocks on their merits, rather than force an advance of prices by mere manipulation. The important advances have been mainly in a few stocks subject to special improvements in their condition.

There still remains the large mass of Granger and Southern and Southwestern shares which have participated by:

orn shares, which have participated but nominally in the recovery of prices, and besides those a miscellaneous group of low priced stocks. The market has undergone none of the evening-up that market has a stock as the stock of the stock. undergone none of the evening-up that usually attends an active movement in in a set of specialties. And yet it seems reasonable to anticipate such a process. For, in the first place, it is now evident that the speculative spirit has sufficiently recovered to follow an upward movement; and, in the next place, there are distinct conditions that warrant the expectation of an early inthere are distinct conditions that warrant the expectation of an early improvement in the business of the railroads at large. The spring rains in the wheat sections have laid the basis for good crops, and that in various ways tends to improve prospects of western traffic. The marked improvements in trade conditions referred to below also lays the basis for an enlargement in tounage of the kinds that pay the higher rates of freight. Thus we must now be close upon a stage of improvement in the earnings of the roads at large; and one or two weeks of increases in the one or two weeks of increases in the weekly statements of traffic would give a strength to this expectation that could hardly fail to make a recovery of prices general throughout the railroad list. Such a movement may be regarded as

due at any moment,

The London market follows closely our own. There has been no scare at the reaction in New York, nor any note-worthy realizings here on London ac-count; there is some buying of our gold bearing bonds and also of the cheaper speculative stocks; but these transactions are not large enough to make themselves felt in the foreign exchanges. On the whole, it may be con-cluded that the attitude of London to-wards American investments has under-gone a distinct improvement.

The late unusual fluctuations in the price of silver have attracted considerable attention. The ups and downs have been largely speculative; but it is not easy to satisfactorily explain the motives of the speculation. The movement has been chiefly confined to London, and has not caused any important operations here, the supply on the mardon, and has not caused any important operations, here, the supply on the market being too small to admit of large transactions. The prospects of a bimetallic convention being called naturally suggests to some the hope of a nearer approach being made to a settlement of the silver question. The price too has, for some time, been exceptionally low, and in some quarters, it show too has, for some time, been exceptionally low; and, in some quarters, it is believed that the product of the metal is declining; but on that point there is considerable difference of opinion. Again, many take it for granted that the payment of the China indemnity, assumed to be 400,000,000 silver yen, or $190,000,000 in gold, will cause a large demand for silver and its subsequent hoarding; which financial manipulators might easily use effectively as an element of speculation. From the standpoint of these factors, there was effective material for such a speculative advance as has been realized. One-half of the recent rise has, however, been lost vance as has been realized. One-half of the recent rise has, however, been lost during the past week; and that fact seems to indicate that the leaders of the movement have taken to realizing. There is an opposite set of factors which might easily make them willing to do so. (1) While there is much pro-bability that another silver conference to do so. (1) While there is much probability that another silver conference may be called, yet the chances of its reaching any substantial agreement are a different matter. (2) The best authorities on this side of the Atlantic take little stock in the supposition that the American product is diminishing. (3) The purchases of war material in Europe by the belligerent Asiatics have been to a very large amount, some 50 to 60 millions; and payments for them have been made in the two nations, which is now held by Asiatic agents of the European banks that have collected these funds, available for use in the Asiatic exchanges, and which acts as a preventive of exports of silver from Europo to Asiatic centres. And (4), while there is little doubt that China may have to pay a very large amount of silver to Japan, yet it is evidently intended that the payments shall be made in installments extending over a long period; and the indemnity will thus be simply a transfer of silver from one Asiatic country to another and may have little bearing on the silver movement between Europe and Asia. As a matter of speculation, therefore, this silver situation has many sides to it and ment between Europe and Asia. As a matter of speculation, therefore, this silver situation has many sides to it and many uncertainties.

Employers are encouraged by the brighter prospects for a gradual and almost sure return of prosperity. They have, in consequence, in numerous instances, commenced to voluntarily advance wages, which in itself is substantial evidence of their confidence in the permanency of the improvement which has already taken place, and in each instance where wages have been advanced a corresponding mark-up has been made up in the stock in trade of those who have taken the initiative in vanced a corresponding mark-up has been made up in the stook in trade of those who have taken the initiative in this direction. For the first time in many years, extensive railroad building is beyond doubt to be commenced. A largor construction of mileage will probably be made in the coming year than for several recent years. This cannot fail to give considerable increase of employment to labor, as well as an impetus to the profitable production of iron and steel. The very large advance in leather goods of every description, with an active demand, has already put that industry back to its former prosperity, Cotton and woolen goods are also finding an increased demand at increased prices. Business recovery is very perceptible in all directions, and the return of confidence and courage is certainly most encouraging. This change for the better is largely due to the belief that we have witnessed in this courtry the last of tariff and curroncy tinkering, as well as other detrimental nation as were as other detrimental national legislation for years to come, and from appearances there is nothing that meanwhile is likely to occur which will upset the present advance movement towards improvement in business affairs generally throughout the country. Bad crops, of course, would make a serious sethers, but when the when ous set-back; but how that the wheat and corn belts are having copious rains to relieve the prolonged drouth of that section the prospect for good crops are most encouraging, so that taking everything into consideration, there is sufficient basis for the return of good times without any serious set-back. There can be no better evidence of this than the increased demand that has recently sprung up for the better class of manufactured goods of all kinds. This is due to increased extravagance on the part of the people, which is a natural American ous set-back; but now that the wheat to increased extravagance on the part of the people, which is a natural American quality. The enlarged expenditures from this source open the way to a more extended and profitable business as a natural outcome from such conditions. Hever CLEWS.

Trade shows considerable falling off Trade shows considerable falling off compared with a week ago, the market being quiet, particularly for domestic wools. Fleece wools are quiet and in light supply. XX and above Ohio moving in a moderate way at 16 al7c for good parcels, while fine Ohio delaines sell at 18a19c. Modium fleeces are easier, owing to near approach of new citp. For one-quarter and three-eighths blood unwashed combings about 16a17c is the market, the latter being for choice lots. The lots left are not up to the best grade in quality, and sales average at lower prices in consequence. Choice strong staple warp wools would probably sell up to 30a32c, scoured for fine medium and fine, but the bulk of the wool selling ranges at about 27a30c for medium to fine. Australian wools are firm and selling well at full prices. The London sale closed firm, with about 23,000 bales purchased for America. Next London sale begus April 30.

THE NEW WOMAN.

How She Operated to Get Rid of a Persistent Masher.

Then she signalled the driver to stop, and got out, followed by the inwardly astonished masher, who had expected only to be repulsed with the cold stare cultivated by the average town-bred young woman for use in such emergencies.
